SUMMARY

Determined, responsible, hard-working, and collaborative are words that best describe me in and out of the workplace. I take the phrase, "you learn something new every day", very literally in my life. The experiences brought about by my education, workplace, and social life, have taught me to accept challenges and struggles as an important learning opportunity. I'm continuing to improve on my technical skills and social skills, knowing that there is always room to grow and innovate.
